MIDDLETOWN, DELAWARE, SATURDAY, MARCH 26, 1921

PRICE THREE CENTS

SCHOOL CONTESTS

Girls And Boys Will Try to Capture Prizes

VERY INTERESTING PROGRAM

Does Middletown produce public speakers and orators? Come to the Opera House Wednesday night March 30 and answer this question for yourself.

We are to have two contests, one among the boys, and one among the girls of the High School. From the interest already shown in this work, I am sure that this event will prove to be one of the most attractive of the season at the Opera House.

There is no reason why Middletown should not produce as good public speakers and orators as are to be found in the state.

Teachers and competent friends have been working diligently for some time to put each one who is on the program in first-class shape. I feel confident that each one present will listen to the message of each orator with keen interest. You may be listening to the best high school orator in the state.

One of the purposes of the contests is to select representatives for the County Contest to be held in the duPont School April 8. If our representatives are successful at the duPont School they will represent the County in the State Contest at Dover on April 15. The winners in the State will be looked upon as the best in the State.

LOCAL PRIZES
The winner of first place in each of the contests will be awarded five dollars in gold. For these prizes we are indebted to the two local banks, who make the offer as a means of encouraging public speaking.

The second winner among the girls will receive $2.50 in gold, offered by the Parent-Teachers Association as an expression of their interest.

The second winner of the boys will be awarded a pass to the Opera House by Mr. Lewis. A generous award by the big hearted Opera House manager.

PROGRAM—BOYS' CONTEST

1. "Knee Deep in June", by James Whitcomb Riley, Burton Williams.
2. "The Cop and the Anthem", by O. Henry, Walter Heaston.
3. "Answer to Langston", from If I were King, Edward Hart.
4. "Rough Riders", from Selections, Harris McDowell, Jr.
5. "The New South", by Henry W. Grady, Rogers Fouracre.
6. "Partisans to the Gladiators", Harmon Money.
7. "A Man Without a Country", by Edward Everett Hale, John Pool.
8. Vocal Solo—Mr. Jefferson Pool.

PROGRAM—GIRLS' CONTEST

1. Selection from Birds' Christmas Carol, "Kate Douglas Wiggin".
2. "A Second Trial", by Sarah Winter Kelly, Edith Cochran.
3. "An Opera", by George Ade, Gladys Gabriel.
4. "Sally Ann's Experience", from Aunt Jane of Kentucky, Dorothy Caulk.
5. "The One Legged Goose", Laura Fogel.
6. "The Watermelon Stockings", June Johnson.

Out of town judges will be present to award these prizes.
Admission to contests and good picture show combined, 35 and 20 cents. Proceeds for benefit of school.

BETHESDA CHURCH NOTES

EASTER SUNDAY

Sunday, March 27th, 1921.

9.30 A. M. The Sunday morning devotional meeting of the Brotherhood will be in charge of Brother Robert George. A splendid meeting for you to attend on Easter morning.

10.30 A. M. Morning worship with sermon by the Pastor. Easter sermon: The choir will render special Easter music both morning and evening. Opportunity will be given for the joining of the Church on Probation and by Church Letter.

11.45 A. M. Sunday School.
6.40 P. M. Junior League meeting.

7.30 P. M. Evening worship with sermon by the Pastor.

Prayer meeting every Wednesday evening at 7.30 o'clock.

The church will be decorated for Easter Sunday by the Queen Esther circle.

Every man and woman, boy or girl big enough to go, stranger, visitor or citizen of Middletown ought to attend service in some Church next Sunday. If you are not in the habit of doing so, Easter Sunday will be a good time to start. A most cordial welcome awaits you, everyone.

J. Bayard Eliason Promoted

J. Bayard Eliason has been appointed controller of the duPont Company to fill a vacancy occasioned by the death of James B. Broad. Mr. Eliason had been assistant controller of the company since December, 1918, and for several years before that had been manager of the general accounts section of the accounting department.

He was born on a farm near Mt. Pleasant, was graduated from Middletown High School and from the Goldwyn Commercial College and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Eliason, of Mt. Pleasant.

"Bake"

A bake will be held to-day (Saturday), in the office of the Land Company, Opera House Building, West Main street. It will be for the benefit of the Middletown Public Library, an institution deserving of help, from all residents of the town. It is hoped all friends will contribute liberally, and then visit the bake and buy liberally. If you wish to see the library keep on its feet financially, come with your pocket-book and help.

ST. ANNE'S CHURCH NOTES ### EPISCOPAL

Sunday, March 27th. EASTER DAY. Services: 8 A. M., Holy Communion, 10.30, Morning prayer, sermon, holy communion.

7.30, Evening prayer and address.
"Why seek ye the living amongst the dead? He is not here, but is risen."—St. Luke XXIV.5, 6.

The church has always celebrated this great festival of the Resurrection as the most important festival of the year. The joy, the glory, the triumph of this day has been her song, as year after year, since ever the true Paschal Lamb was slain, she has kept at this time "the Lord's Passover." Christ is risen! In despite of watch and seal, the stone is rolled away from the sepulchre, and as angels brought the glad tidings of His birth, they bring also the glorious news of His resurrection—pledge of our own rising from the dead.

In joyful anthems and exulting hymns the church takes up the strain, and our hearts thrill even as though, with the disciples, we beheld again "the linen clothes lying;" and, with Mary, heard once more the voice of our risen Lord. The early Christians greeted each other on Easter morning with "Christ is risen," and were answered "He is risen indeed!" "And hath appeared unto Simon." "Christ our Passover is sacrificed for us, therefore let us keep the feast." Oh, with what love, joy, and thankfulness should we keep the feast which typifies to us an eternal feast in His promise, "where there shall be no more death, neither sorrow nor crying!" Powerless the stone, the grave to bind Him! Powerless the mighty foe of man; death is vanquished, and henceforth their Lord and our Lord and our Saviour lives forevermore! Alleluia, Christ is risen from the dead!

The choir has prepared a fine musical program for both morning and evening, and it is hoped that every communicant will be present. The public is cordially invited.

All those having the Missionary Mite Boxes are requested to return them on Easter Day.

At the evening service all members of the Sunday School are expected to be present. The Mite Boxes will be presented and the amount collected by each class will be announced.

The annual Parish and Vestry meeting will be held in the Parish House on Easter Monday, March 28th, at three o'clock.

STATE AND PENINSULA

A large hotel and theatre combined is being erected in Harrington.

Opening ceremonies at the new hospital will be held on April 22d.

The lumber factories at Milton closed for sometime have resumed operations.

Millsboro will issue bonds next month for the erection of a modern water system.

Plans are being made to organize a Cecil County Farmers' Exchange at Elkton Monday night.

Twenty-five more members are needed by the tank company, National Guard, being organized at New Castle.

Four boys who escaped from the Ferris Industrial Home in Wilmington have been recaptured and returned to the institution.

A special meeting of the Wilmington City Council with the Board of Health will be held to discuss the garbage disposal situation.

The Sussex County Levy Court with a short time will purchase five 5-ton trucks, which are to be turned over to the State Highway Department, by the Federal government.

The Levy Court of Sussex county, have expressed in favor of the bill now pending in the Legislature, relative to appropriating $3,600 annually for demonstration work in agriculture and home economics.

The project of building a hospital in Dover is growing in favor and is likely one will be built in the near future. It is thought that a hospital for Dover, including construction, equipment and maintenance (an endowment being included) would cost $250,000.

Parent-Teacher Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association was held Friday afternoon in the High School. The following program was rendered: selection on the violin and piano, Harry Roberts and John Pool; vocal solo, Gladys Gabriel; piano duet, June Johnson and Caroline Fouracre; readings, "The Modern School Plant," Mrs. C. J. Freeman, "Proper Lighting of a Modern School," Mrs. Howard Pool; "Size of School Ground," Mrs. Denny; "Why Many Schools are Unsatisfactory," Mrs. Robert Gabriel. The picture for having the most parents in attendance was awarded to Miss Richards' room. Mrs. Chamberlaine, chairman of the membership committee, reported ten new members as having joined the association.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. A. Fogel announce the engagement of their daughter, Laura Louise, to Harry Schagrin, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Schagrin, of Wilmington. Miss Fogel is a Senior of Middletown High School and will take up a course in Home Economics the coming fall. The wedding will not take place for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Fogel will give a reception at the duPont Hotel next June to formally announce the engagement.

LOCAL TRAINERS BEGIN SEASON

Middletown will be well represented on the half mile tracks in the way of both horses and trainers during the coming season, two separate stables starting out from here during this and next week.

Arthur Crowe, who trained last year for Hindemair and Sparks, has accepted the same position for the coming year and will begin his duties on Monday. He will train the string of that firm at the track of the Frankford Driving Club at Frankford, Philadelphia. In the lineup for the coming season will be Pat 2.14 1-4, who is a time allowance of two seconds and is eligible to the 2.17 paces.

This horse was raced two years ago by S. Powell Peacock, who at that time was training for Mr. Hindemair and went wrong last year, but is now said to be jogging sound. He will also have Goldie Burke, 2.16 1-4, another pacer with 2.10 speed, and Donna Dillon, by Dillon Axworthy, with a record of 2.17 1-2. He will take from here Little June Bug, a pacer by Prince March, belonging to Robert T. Cochran and Rube Archeon, a young trotter owned by Corbit Vinyard.

Mr. Peacock, who has wintered a string of seven here removed to the Elsmere track of the Delaware State Fair Association this week. He will train there until the races begin in the Eastern Circuit, and will have under his tutelage Mrs. Watts, 2.17; Silkobel, 2.15 1-2; Matt H., 2.20, and two colts by Knight of Delaware, and one youngster by Acheen. At the Elsmere track he will take on Colonel B. and Brown Betty belonging to William H. Klair.

The groom is the youngest son of the late Merritt N. Willits, and has a host of friends in this section who will join The Transcript in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Willits many years of happy wedded life.

PEDESTAL WOMAN

This is Woman's age and no mistake! All over the land politicians little and big are tumbling over themselves in profuse proffers of services to "my lady".

More than ever the male makers of the fashions are racking their almost brainless noddles to invent some new absurdity in apparel in hopes to win the applause of her facile ducats.

And so it goes, in business, in church in society, in everything, that hateful old masculine libel that pretended to look for a woman at the bottom of all evil, "cherchez la femme", has yielded to a worshipful mani to ascribe all good to Woman, and this, too it goes somewhat to the other extreme, is much nearer the truth.

Then read how our two banks are courting Woman, but recently inducted into her full political rights. The Delaware Trust Company pays her this fine compliment:

"TO WOMEN"
"This bank appreciates especially its women patrons. Women are welcome here. The modern era recognizes the woman as an individual. Modern law secures her individual rights. A business woman needs the element of strength that a bank alone can give".

The Peoples National Bank mingles financial advice and sentiment in this pleasing fashion:
"GIRLS SHOULD HAVE SAVING ACCOUNTS"

"Every young girl indulges the praiseworthy ambition to be, someday, the mistress of a home all her own.

A no less worthy ambition would be to have her own bank account, if but a modest one. And of all the nice things that go into her "hope chest", what so fine as a Savings Account laid up in the THE PEOPLES NATIONAL BANK through her own self-denial in her youth?

"Saving Girls Generally Prove Matrimonial Prizes"

The Scribe, who has long been a worshipper—at a safe distance—of the fair sex, is glad to quote the above brace of references to her, taken from the columns of last week's Transcript. Esto perpetua!

"KISMET"

What you'll see in "Kismet," at the Opera House, next Thursday evening.

The greatest actor of the American stage in his most popular and celebrated stage success.

One of the most noteworthy supporting casts ever assembled including Hamilton Revelle, Rosemary Theby, Herschel Mayall, Elinor Fair and Leon Barry.

A harem interior that has never been equaled on stage or screen and copied from the plans used in building a harem for a very wealthy Arab in Cairo.

How the Caliph Abdullah, the youthful ruler of a big city, stole away from his palace and retainers, and found the girl of his choice in the poorest quarters of the city.

How a beggar in one day arose from poverty and rags to wealth and position only to have them dramatically swept away before sundown.

How the favorite wife of the Wazir of Bagdad fell in love with a beggar.

"Kismet"—the tale of Hajji the beggar, who dwelt in Bagdad in the first year of the reign of the Caliph Abdullah and begged upon the stone by the door of the Mosque of Carpenters, clad in filthy rags. It is a tale, wild, improbable, barbaric, romantic, full of childish simplicity and adult passions.

Hundreds of gorgeous robes and gowns designed, especially for the production by a large staff of artists and designers assembled from different parts of the world.

The interior of the Caliph's palace—pronounced by critics the finest set of its kind ever built. This set is over 200 feet long and thousands of dollars were spent on the gorgeous decorations used in it.

A story brim full of color, drama, comedy, adventures, intrigue, love-making, bewilderment and suspense.

A gorgeous royal wedding as they did it in Bagdad a thousand years ago.

PROTEST INSULT OFFERED ALLIES

Thousands Hear "Horrors on Rhine" Meeting Denounced

PERSHING, ASSAILS HYPHEN

Lauds Loyal Foreign-Born—Messages Read From Harding, The G. A. R. And United Confederate Veterans.

New York.—General John J. Pershing, speaking before a crowd which packed Madison Square Garden at one of the greatest patriotic demonstrations here since the signing of the armistice, bitterly denounced persons of foreign birth who seek the freedom of this country to spread "political and warlike propaganda" to weaken the ties of friendship between the United States and her allies in the late war.

The meeting was held under the auspices of the American Legion and other patriotic societies as a protest against the recent mass-meeting arranged to voice objection to the presence of French colonial troops in occupied Germany, described as "The Horrors on the Rhine."

Fifteen minutes before the meeting was called to order by Col. Frank Galbraith, Jr., national commander of the American Legion, the Fire Department officials ordered the doors of the Garden closed. More than 14,000 persons were then packed into the structure, while thousands swarmed around the building, frantically endeavoring to enter.

General Pershing, paying tribute to foreign-born citizens who served under him in the Philippines, Mexico and France, declared it was entirely proper that foreigners should cling to the folklore, literature and music of their native land, but he assailed those who seek to dictate American questions and political policies by the standards of their countries.

"We have no quarrel with the American of foreign birth," he said. "We want them to know that Americanism is an inspiration, that it is something spiritual, a goal toward which we aim. But we do object to the foreign-born citizen who attempts to decide an American question for a foreign reason, whether he be of German lineage and proposes to determine an American policy because of German prejudice, or whether he be Irish, Italian, Hungarian or Russian, who seeks for similar reasons to decide American questions."

"I bitterly resent the abuse of American citizenship or residence for the purpose of political or warlike propaganda in foreign countries."

"In America there can be no place for those who while claiming equal citizenship with us and enjoying its privileges under our flag yet continue their allegiance to another country. There can be no such thing as dual citizenship in America. Under no guise can this country be made the breeding place of intrigue."

WILL LOOK THEM OVER.

Daugherty To Inspect All Possible Appointees For Judges.

Washington.—Attorney General Daugherty is going to "look over" personally all possible appointees as Federal judges or district attorneys before selections are made. In making known his intention Mr. Daugherty said that he intended to call to Washington each man who came up for serious consideration in the districts and see them himself before making any appointments.

EIGHTEEN ARE INDICTED.

Wholesale Prosecution In Toledo P. O. Robbery Case.

Toledo, O.—Eighteen individuals, two of them women, were named in indictments returned by the Federal Grand Jury here in connection with the robbery of the Central Postoffice last February 17, when five armed men held up three railway mail clerks and escaped with mail sacks containing more than $1,000,000 in cash and negotiable papers.

HARDING TO PROMOTE DOCTOR.

Marion Physician Will Be Made Brigadier-General.

Washington.—Dr. C. E. Sawyer, of Marion, Ohio, President Harding's personal physician, will be made a brigadier-general in the Army Medical Corps. Dr. Sawyer was in the Medical Reserve Corps during the war and he will be transferred back to active service and given the rank of a brigadier.

ASK GOVERNOR ALLEN TO PROBE

Demand For Inquiry Into Attacks On N. P. League.

Washington.—Governor Allen, of Kansas, was urged in a telegram by Senator Ladd and Representative Sinclair of North Dakota to investigate mob attacks on Nonpartisan League organizers at Great Bend and to clear up charges that members of the American Legion were involved.

SON, 22, KILLS FATHER.

Third Such Case In Kentucky Within Few Weeks.

Lexington, Ky.—A report reaching here from the Letcher county mountains says Olle Hunsucker, aged 22, living with his father, shot and killed his parent at their home. There had been ill feeling between them for some time, it is said, which culminated in a violent quarrel and the subsequent murder.

EXECUTED WHEN FORTRESS FELL

Horrors Follow the Surrender of Kronstadt to Soviet

DEFENDERS' UPHILL FIGHT

Refugees' Serious Plight—Finland In Quandary To Find Food For Fifteen Thousand Thirst Upon Her.

Stockholm.—Details of the fall of Kronstadt before the repeated onslaughts of the Bolshevik army under command of Leon Trotsky, the Soviet War Minister, have been brought here by refugees.

In the citadel, according to the refugees, some 1700 men were left endeavoring to fight their way toward the East and in the other fortresses approximately 1,000 were made prisoner by the Bolsheviks. All officers and leaders among the military forces and civilians were immediately picked out and on Trotsky's orders, given before the final attack, were executed.

Their bodies were thrown on the ice of the Gulf of Finland with stones and scrap iron in the pockets so that they will sink when the ice breaks up, probably a fortnight hence. All the other rebel soldiers interned are awaiting the future which, according to the refugees, most likely will bring executions. As food is scarce and the victorious Soviet army is on half rations, the situation of the prisoners is easily understandable, the refugees point out.

The horrors of the days of storming cannot be described, the refugees say. The insurrectionary forces were repeatedly betrayed by inhabitants sympathizing with the Bolsheviks and small bodies of the rebels were fired on and moved down by machine guns in the hands of local communists, and simultaneously repulse attacks from the outside. Everyone, old or young, man or woman, with or without weapons, who got in the way of or was hunted up by the Bolsheviks was killed immediately, the refugees assert, no pardon being asked and none being given.

The town of Kronstadt suffered severely. At the beginning of the retreat by the insurrectionists big fires were burning in five places, but by Friday no smoke or fire could be seen.

The stream of refugees from Kronstadt has ceased, according to dispatches received from Terioki, on the Finnish frontier, at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Only a few men arrived this morning after an adventurous night clad in white, and with badly wounded hands sustained in creeping for miles along the ice in order to escape detection by the many Bolshevik patrols. The Bolsheviks, the refugees say, have established a circular chain of sentries and patrols around Kronstadt, through which it is impossible to break.

Kronstadt had big stores of army equipment, which explained the good attire of the soldiers and sailors arriving in Finland. The latter country will have great difficulty in feeding the hungry refugees, as normally she must import more than two-thirds of the grain and flour consumed. With exchange rates unfavorable, keeping some 15,000 destitute refugees indefinitely will be a heavy burden.

WILL PROBE LEGION REPORTS.

Rotarians To Survey Conditions Surrounding Disabled Veterans.

Indianapolis.—A nation-wide survey of conditions surrounding the care of disabled World War veterans has been started by the 800 Rotary Clubs of the country, according to a letter received at the American Legion's national headquarters here from Chesley H. Perry, secretary of the Rotary Clubs' Association. The purpose of the survey, says the letter, is "to prove whether American Legion reports are based on hysteria or upon actual facts."

ARMOUR AGENT IS HELD.

Arrested On Charge Of Selling Short Weight.

Stamford, Conn.—John C. Lee, manager of Armour & Co. here, was arrested, and held on his own recognizance pending trial on the charge of selling packages of butter that were short in weight. The local inspector of weights and measures claimed he found pound packages of butter sold by Armour through Lee, from one ounce to an ounce and a half under weight.

NO DINING CAR FOR CHICKS.

Postal Employees Instructed Not To Feed Them.

Washington.—Passenger service maintained by the postoffice for "day-old chicks" does not include dining car accommodations. Instruction to postal employees in a recent bulletin include the following: "Do not give food or water to the chicks while in transit."

WRESTLER FALLS 3 STORIES.

Three Persons Missing Following Burning Of Hotel.

Emporia, Kan.—Three persons are missing following a fire which completely destroyed the Hotel Whitley. Several persons were severely burned and others received injuries when they fell from upper stories of the building. Jack Fisher, a wrestler, fell three stories.

WASHINGTON SIDELIGHTS

What the "Formers" Are Doing Nowadays

WASHINGTON.—What are the members of the Wilson cabinet doing these days? Well, "Tom" Marshall spoke for several of them when he remarked, "Eight years of it has kept me poor; I've got to be starting to make some money." It seems that the annual stipend of $12,000, less the income tax, has made the sledding hard for cabinet members. So the former vice president is making an extensive lecture tour. Then he's going to make his first European trip; then he's going back to the practice of law in Columbia City, Ind.

Former Secretary of State Colby springs a surprise. Washington and New York are to have a new law firm, of which the partners are Woodrow Wilson and Bainbridge Colby.

March 3 President Wilson appointed the retiring secretary of labor, W. B.

Wilson, a member of the international joint commission on the United States-Canadian boundary line.

A. S. Burleson, "which was" postmaster, is one who isn't worrying about finances; he took the fast mail back to his Texas ranches and cotton fields. Newton D. Baker made a forced march from the War department to his law office in Cleveland. That bluff old sea dog Josephus Daniels is back at the wheel of the Raleigh (N. C.) News and Observer. E. T. Meredith of the Agricultural department is again busy with "Successful Farming" in Des Moines, Ia.

John Barton Payne doesn't need the secretary of the interior's job to keep the wolf from the door of the Chicago club on Michigan boulevard, where he maintains residence. Whether he will practice law again or travel is undecided. Incidentally he is president of the South Park commission of Chicago. Former Attorney General Palmer has gone back to the practice of law, some of which, at least, will be done in Washington.

D. F. Houston, who was a Missouri college professor, is undecided about his plans, but says he most certainly will not write a book. J. W. Alexander will go back to his law practice in Missouri.

A Wind That Blew Down Whole Forests

IN the closing days of the last congress Senator Jones of Washington submitted an amendment to the deficiency bill proposing to appropriate $100,000 for emergency expenditures incident to the disposal of wind-thrown timber on the Olympic National forest and the repair and construction of roads, fire lines, trails, telephone lines, etc. This is an aftermath of the cyclone of last January, which created a most dangerous fire trap.

"A tremendous tornado," states Assistant Forester E. A. Sherman, "blew down timber estimated at 5,000,000 to 8,000,000 board feet, in a strip 75 miles long and 30 miles wide, 1,000,000,000 board feet of which is within the Olympic National forest. This is the greatest disaster ever recorded in lumbering."

"The wind-thrown timber," said Mr. Sherman, "which lies in a tangled mass over an area of 2,500 square miles, is largely western hemlock and spruce, both of which are subject to rapid decay. Transportation is lacking for much of this region."

"Where the full force of the wind was felt practically every tree was thrown down, and all roads, trails and telephone lines were completely obliterated."

"A large number of buildings were destroyed and some cattle killed. It is believed that many of the elk were killed and that others will slowly starve. The storm zone reached entirely through the best winter feeding grounds of these animals."

Airplanes will have to be used for survey, since it is impossible to traverse the uprooted forests.

World War Makes Work for the Lawyers

MILLIONS of dollars—and probably billions—are represented in the great tide of lawsuits beginning to pour into the United States Court of Claims as one of the results of the World War. The court was expressly created to determine legal controversies between private citizens and the government.

Actions upon claims involving approximately $124,000,000 have already been filed. The ultimate aggregate of claims, it is estimated, will reach between two and three billion dollars.

"Christian, American and Republican"

THE new congresswoman from Oklahoma, Miss Alice Robertson, cafeteria proprietress and school teacher, is not sure that the nation is ready for a federal department of education with a cabinet officer. At the session of one of the groups of the National Education association in Atlantic City Miss Robertson spoke to several thousand educators.

"I do not feel that enough deliberation has been given to the subject of a federal department of education," said Miss Robertson. "This does not mean that I am opposed to such a thing or even that I will not vote for it."

"Miss Alice," as she is familiarly known in Oklahoma, says that a woman can do anything she sets out to do if "she keeps her mouth shut and her ears open."

Defining the position she will take in congress, she said: "I would rather be like a humble little light that shines a long distance across the prairies than a bright sky" rocket that flashes in midair for a few seconds and then falls to earth with a dull thud. If people think I am going to do something sensational, they're mistaken. I am conservative. The platform upon which I was elected is: "I am a Christian; I am an American; I am a Republican."

Discussing woman's dress, she said: "I do not believe that the modern short skirts, if they do not go to extremes, are much worse than the prudish long skirts of the mid-Victorian period that were held so high when crossing the street."

Missouri Now One Hundred Years Old

MISSOURI is now 100 years old and wants to show the rest of the country by having a 50-cent piece struck off by the mint in commemoration and celebration of her birthday anniversary. The bill passed by the senate in the last congress reads in part as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That in commemoration of the one hundredth anniversary of the admission of Missouri into the Union there shall be coined at the mints of the United States 50-cent pieces to the number of 250,000, each 50-cent pieces to be of the standard troy weight, composition, diameter, device and design as shall be fixed by the director of the mint, with the approval of the secretary of the treasury, which said 50-cent pieces shall be legal tender in any payment to the amount of their face value.

Sec. 2. That all laws now in force relating to the subsidiary silver coins of the United States and the coining or striking of the same, regulating and guarding the process of coining, providing for the purchase of material and for the transportation, distribution and redemption of the coins, for the prevention of debasement or counterfeiting, for security of the coin, or for any other purposes, whether said laws are penal or otherwise, shall, so far as applicable, apply to the coining herein authorized. Provided, That the United States shall not be subject to the expense of making the necessary dies and other preparations for this coining.

Missouri's population is 3,403,547.

LESSON FOR MARCH 27

THE LIVING CHRIST.

LESSON TEXT—Matt. 28:1-20.
GOLDEN TEXT—I am with you always, even unto the end of the world.—Matt. 28:20.

REFERENCE MATERIAL—Matt. 27: 61-66; Mark 16:1-8; Luke 24:36; 24:37; John 20:19-28; Phil. 3:10.

PRIMARY TOPIC—The Easter Story.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Our Ever-Present Friend.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Christ Our Living Leader.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Christ in the Life of Today.

I. The Empty Sepulcher (vv. 1-7). This I. The earthquake (vv. 1-4). This occurred when the glorious angel descended from heaven to roll the stone away from the tomb. This work of the angel was not to allow Jesus to escape, but to show that the tomb was empty. Christ needed not even the help of a glorious angel, for He was raised up by His own power as the seal upon His atoning work on the cross. The open tomb and the angel sitting upon the stone with calm dignity is a picture of God's triumph over the devil, and the terror of the keepers is a sample of what all of Christ's enemies shall one day experience when He comes in glory to reign as King.

2. The angel's message to the women (vv. 5-7). (1) "Fear not" (v. 5). While the enemies had occasion to fear, these women who loved the Lord received good news from the empty tomb. The Lord will not long leave those who follow Him in love in suspense and dread. The empty tomb puts an end to all doubts and fears. It is the evidence that the question of sin is dealt with, and that God is satisfied and eternal victory is secured. (2) "Come, see" (v. 6). The angel told the women that the Lord had risen and invited them to come and see the place where He lay. The reason He invites them to come in is that He desires them to make sure about the facts. The Lord made special effort to convince the disciples of the reality of His resurrection. He remained with them for 40 days, giving them many infallible proofs. (3) "Go quickly" (v. 7). Having seen for themselves, their responsibility was to go to tell the message. While it is important to be convinced of facts, one should not stay too long because there is work to do. Experience is necessary before testimony. They were to go quickly to the disciples with the message, assured that the Lord would go before and meet them.

II. The Risen King Meets the Women (vv. 8-10). The women quickly obeyed the command of the angel and were running to bring the disciples word. Jesus met them on the way. Those who have an experimental knowledge of Christ should go speedily to tell others of it. All who go quickly with His message, the Lord will meet on the way. When they saw Jesus, that He was really the Lord, they worshiped Him. They knew that He was the Son of God, therefore entitled to be worshipped.

III. Paying Money to Circulate a Lie (vv. 11-15). That Jesus arose from the dead could not even be denied by the Sanhedrin. They could see but one way out of the difficulty, that was to bribe the keepers to tell a lie. They had paid money for His betrayal; now they pay much more to circulate a lie about His resurrection. What a wonderful power money has over the lives and consciences of men! It will not only induce people to lie, but it even muzzles the mouths of preachers.

IV. The King's Great Commission (vv. 16-20). By virtue of His royal authority He issued this great command to the disciples. In order to prepare them to receive this command, He declared unto them that all power in heaven and earth was given unto Him. This is most fundamental. Only as the disciples realize the Lord's power are they likely to go about with the message.

1. "Go, teach all nations." This is the first and primary business of the disciples. The risen and mighty Lord issues this command to all (v. 19). 2. Baptize them in the name of the Father God. Those who have become disciples of the Lord should receive that rite which signifies that relationship to Him (v. 19).

3. Teach them to observe all Christ's commandments (v. 20). Those who become Christ's disciples should be taught obedience to all His commands. All who thus obey Him shall enjoy His abiding presence. Christ's abiding presence guarantees the success of the enterprise.

Christ's Appreciativeness. Christ's appreciativeness amounts almost to a rediscovery of mankind. "She has come forth and to anoint my body to the burying." He said when Judas grumbled that the woman had wasted the precious ointment. The gospel mentions three other women who longed to anoint the Savior. They came to the sepulcher on the third morning to find His body gone. Too late! Mary said, "I will do it now." Oh, the pity of putting off kind words and loving service until we can only go and wreathe more blooms on the little hillock in God's Acre!

The Big Human Need. A man without religion is not a man at all. If we do not take the God of the Bible, we inevitably proceed to make a God for ourselves. It is this fact that makes religion the only possible social binder. Just as children in the home find their family unity in the fact of their common parentage, so men in societies are able to live together because and when they achieve a spiritual unity.—Dr. Charles A. Eaton in Leslie's.

Good Printing

THE kind of printing that pays dividends is the kind you should have. Pale, muddy, poorly arranged printed matter is worse than none. The quality of your business is often judged by the quality of your stationery—superior printing gives an impression of business that is hard to overcome, while good printing carries with it a desirable suggestion of quality.

We produce only Quality Printing. Whether you want an inexpensive handbill or a letterhead in colors, if you order it from us you will be sure of getting good work. We have the equipment and the "know how" that enables us to get really good printing—printing that impresses people with the good taste of its users. That is the only kind of printing that

MRS. NANCY SHARP, of Los Angeles, who says she received the greatest surprise of her life when Tanlac completely restored her health after she had almost lost hope of ever getting well. Suffered twelve years.

"After seeing the wonderful results
my husband obtained from Tanlac I began taking the medicine myself, and now we both agree that it is the greatest medicine on earth," said Mrs.
Nancy Sharp, a prominent and highly esteemed resident of Los Angeles, Calif., living at 921 Camulus street, whose husband is proprietor of the Merchants' Express Co.

"During the twelve years that I suffered with indigestion and stomach trouble I tried nearly every medicine
I heard about, but nothing helped me and I lost faith in everything. So, my wonderful restoration to health has been the greatest surprise of my life.

"I began to feel an improvement on finishing my second bottle of Tanlac, and now after taking six bottles I am like a new woman. I have a splendid appetite, eat three hearty meals a day, enjoy them thoroughly and am never troubled in the least with indigestion or any other disagreeable after effects.

"Before taking Tanlac most everything I ate caused my stomach to rebel and I would suffer for hours afterwards. I was so dreadfully nervous that many nights I never closed my eyes in sleep, but now I am not the least nervous, and I sleep like a child. My strength has been wonderfully increased, and I have much more energy.

"I just wish it was so everybody troubled like I was knew about this wonderful medicine."

CHAPTER I.—Continued.

—16—

Into a little hollow in the bark, on the underside of the log, some hand had thrust a small roll of papers.
They were rain-soaked now, and the ink had dimmed and blotted; but Dan realized their significance. They were the complete evidence that Hildreth had accumulated against the arson ring—letters that had passed back and forth between himself and Cranston, a threat of murder from the former if Hildreth turned state's evidence, and a signed statement of the arson activities of the ring by Hildreth himself.
They were not only enough to break up the ring and send its members to prison; with the aid of the empty shell
and other circumstantial evidence,
they could in all probability convict Bert Cranston of murder.

For a long time he stood with the shadows of the pines lengthening about him, his gray eyes in curious shadow. For the moment a glimpse was given him into the deep wells of the human soul; and understanding came to him. Was there no balm for hated even in the moment of death?
Were men unable to forget the themes and motives of their lives, even when the shadows closed down upon them?
Hildreth had known what hand had struck him down. And even on the frontier of death, his first thought was to hide his evidence where Cranston could not find it when he searched the body, but where later it might be found by the detectives that were sure to come. It was the old creed of a life for a life. He wanted his evidence to be preserved—not that right should be wronged, but so that Cranston would be prosecuted and convicted and made to suffer. His hatred of Cranston that had made him turn state's evidence in the first place had been carried with him down into death.

As Dan stood wondering, he thought he heard a twig crack on the trail behind him, and he wondered what forecast creature was still lingering on the ridges at the eve of the snows.

The snow began to fall in earnest
at midnight—great, white flakes that almost in an instant covered the leaves.
It was the real beginning of winter,
and all living creatures knew it. The wolf pack sang to it from the ridge—
a wild and plaintive song that made Bert Cranston, sleeping in a lean-to on the Umpeque side of the Divide, sweat and mutter in his sleep. But he didn't really wake until Jim Gibbs, one of his gang, returned from his secret mission.

They wasted no words. Bert flung aside the blankets, lighted a candle and placed it out of the reach of the night wind. His face looked swarthy and deep-lined in its light.

"Well?" he demanded. "What did you find?"

"Nothin'." Jim Gibbs answered gutturally. "If you ask me what I found out, I might have somethin' to answer."

"Then—" and Bert, after the manner of his kind, breathed an oath—
"What did you find out?"

His tone, except for an added note of savagery, remained the same. Yet his heart was thumping a great deal louder than he liked to have it. Realizing that the snows were at hand, he had sent Gibbs for a last search of the body, to find and recover the evidence that Hildreth had against him and which had not been revealed either on Hildreth's person or in his cabin.

Some Hand Had Thrust a Small Roll of Paper.

He had become increasingly apprehensive about those letters he had written Hildreth, and certain other documents that had been in his possession. He didn't understand why they hadn't turned up. And now the snows had started, and Jim Gibbs had returned empty-handed, but evidently not empty-minded.

"I've found that the body's been uncovered—and men are already search-in' for clues. And moreover—I think they've found them." He paused, weighing the effect of his words. His eyes glittered with cunning. But that he was, he was wondering whether the time had arrived to leave the ship. He had no intention of continuing to give his services to a man with a rope-noose closing about him. And Cranston, knowing this fact, hated him as he hated the buzzard that would claim him in the end, and tried to hide his apprehension.

"Go on. Blat it out," Cranston ordered. "Or else go away and let me sleep."

It was a bluff; but it worked. If Gibbs had gone without speaking,
Cranston would have known no sleep that night. But the man became more fawning.

"I'm tellin' you, fast as I can," he went on, almost whining. "I went to the cabin, just as you said. But I didn't get a chance to search it—"

"Why not?" Cranston thundered.
His voice re-echoed among the snow-
wet pines.

"I'll tell you why! Because someone else—evidently a cop—was already searchin' it. Both of us know there's nothin' there, anyway. We've gone over it too many times. After a while he went away—but I didn't turn back yet. That wouldn't be Jim Gibbs. I shadowed him, just as you'd want me to. And he went straight back to the body."

"Yes?" Cranston had hard work curbing his impatience. Again Gibbs' eyes were full of ominous speculations.

"He stopped at the body, and it was plain he'd been there before. He went crawling through the thickets, lookin' for clues. He done what you and me never thought to do—lookin' all the way between the trail and the body.
He'd already found the brass shell you told me to get. At least, it wasn't there when I looked, after he'd gone.
You should've thought of it before.
But he found somethin' else a whole lot more important—a roll of papers that Hildreth had chucked into an old pine stump when he was dyin'. It was your fault, Cranston, for not gettin' them that night. This detective stood and read 'em on the trail. And you know—just as well as I do—what they were."

"D—n you, I went back the next morning, as soon as I could see. And the mountain lion had already been there. I went back lots of times since.
And that shell ain't nothin'—but all the time I supposed I put it in my pocket. You know how it is—a fellow throws his empty shell out by habit."

Gibbs' eyes grew more intent. What was this thing? Cranston's tone, instead of commanding, was almost pleading. But the leader caught himself at once.

"I don't see why I need to explain any of that to you. What I want to know is this: why you didn't shoot
and get those papers away from him?"

For an instant their eyes battled.
But Gibbs had never the strength of his leader. If he had, it would have been asserted long since. He sucked in his breath, and his gaze fell away.
It rested on Cranston's rifle, that in some manner had been pulled up across his knees. And at once he was cowed. He was never so fast with a gun as Cranston.

"Blood on my hands, eh—same as on yours?" he mumbled, looking down.

"What do you think I want, a rope around my neck? These hills are big, but the arm of the law has reached up before, and it might again. You might as well know first as last I'm not goin'
to do any killin' to cover up your murders."

"That comes of not going myself.
You fool—if he gets that evidence down to the courts you're broken the same as me."

"But I wouldn't get more'n a year or so, at most—and that's a heap different from the gallows. I did aim at him—"

"But you just lacked the guts to pull the trigger!"

"I did, and I ain't ashamed of it.
But besides—the snows are here now,
and he won't be able to even get word to the valleys for six months. If you want him killed so bad, do it yourself."

This was a thought indeed. On the other hand, another murder might not be necessary. Months would pass before the road would be opened, and in the meantime Cranston would have a thousand chances to steal back the accusing letters. He didn't believe for an instant that the man Gibbs had seen was a detective. He had kept too close watch over the roads for that.

"A tall chap, in outing clothes—
dark-haired and clean-shaven?"

"Yes?"

"Wears a tan hat?"

"That's the man."

"I know him—and I wish you'd punctured him. That's Falling—the tenderfoot that's been staying at Len-nox's. He's a lunger."

"He didn't look like no lunger to me."

"But no matter about that—it's just as I thought. And I'll get 'em back—mark my little words."

In the meantime the best thing to do was to move at once to his winter trapping grounds—a certain neglected region on the lower levels of the North Fork. If at any time within the next few weeks, Dan should attempt to carry word down to the settlements, he would be certain to pass within view of his camp. But he knew that the chance of Dan starting upon any such journey before the snow had melted was not one in a thousand. To be caught in the Divide in the winter means to be snowed in as completely as the Innuits of upper Greenland. No word could pass except by man or snowshoes.

Yet if the chance did come, if the house should be left unguarded, it might pay Cranston to make an immediate search. Dan would have no reason for supposing that Cranston suspected his possession of the letters; he would not be particularly watchful, and would probably pigeonhole them until spring in Lennox's desk.

And the truth was that Cranston had reasoned out the situation almost perfectly. When Dan awakened in the morning, and the snow lay already a foot deep over the wilderness world,
he knew that he would have no chance to act upon the Cranston case until the snows melted in the spring. So he pushed all thought of it out of his mind and turned his attention to more pleasant subjects. It was true that he read the documents over twice as he lay in bed. Then he tied them into a neat packet and put them away where they would be quickly available. Then he thrust his head out of the window and let the great snowflakes sift down upon his face. It was winter at last,
the season that he loved.

He didn't stir from the house that first day of the storm. Snowbird and he found plenty of pleasant things to do and talk about before the roaring fire that he built in the grate. He was

"You Just Lacked the Guts to Pull the Trigger."

glad of the great pile of wood that lay outside the door. It meant life itself, in this season. Then Snowbird led him to the windows, and they watched the white drifts pile up over the low underbrush.

When finally the snowstorm ceased,
five days later, the whole face of the wilderness was changed. The buck-brush was mostly covered, the fences were out of sight; the forest seemed a clear, clean sweep of white, broken only by an occasional tall thicket and by the great, snow-covered trees.

When the clouds blew away, and the air grew clear, the temperature began to fall. Dan had no way of knowing how low it went. Thermometers were not considered essential at the Lennox home. But when his eyelids congealed with the frost, and his mittens froze to the logs of firewood that he carried through the door, and the pine trees exploded and cracked in the darkness, he was correct in his belief that it was very, very cold.

But he loved the cold, and the silence and austerity that went with it.
The wilderness claimed him as never before. The rugged breed that were his ancestors had struggled through such seasons as this and passed a love of them down through the years to him.

PEKING'S WALL OF DRAGONS

Mythical Creatures in Tiles That at First Sight Appear Surprisingly Lifelike.

One of the unexpected treasures of Peking is the dragon screen. It is barely mentioned in some of the guide-books and not mentioned at all in others. It is hidden behind a hillcock in the winter palace grounds, and nine-tenths of the visitors to Peking walk within a hundred yards of it and never dream of its existence.

It is a wall perhaps 20 feet high and a hundred long, faced completely with tile cast to represent nine life-size dragons in bas relief, of various colors—yellow, purple, buff, maroon, orange, dancing gaily above emerald
billows against a pale blue sky.

Doubtless one should not speak of "life size" dragons, but these creatures
of the screen are the liveliest dragons one may ever hope to see; they give rise to the feeling that if a dragon lived he would be exactly like one of them.

Most sculptured Chinese dragons are lifeless, angular beasts; but here
there is an almost un-Chinese vigor and audacity in the spring and twist of the lithe bodies. They leap, whirl, lunge and writhe until the spectator steps back, half afraid that they will come tumbling off the screen, striking at the unwary with their sturdy claws.

There are, I believe, critics who teach that plastic art should never undertake to portray moments of activity.
If this be correct, the dragons stand condemned; but if the sculptor may ever rightly give us life in its vivid,
moving moments, here is a masterpiece—James A. Muller in the National Geographic Magazine.

There is a peculiar fascination about many things whose origin is attributed to his satanic majesty.

The Tractor That Stays

It is pretty generally accepted now that the farm power of the future will be generated by kerosene and other low-grade, low-priced fuels. A tractor that operates successfully on these fuels, insuring dependable power at drawbar and belt, is the tractor that will stay because it will pay.

International 8-16 Tractor

has established its reputation for satisfactory performance in the school of experience. It has passed successfully through long and rigid tests under actual field conditions in all sections of the country.

Belt work is becoming more and more important.
The use of small threshers, ensilage cutters, etc., combined with a suitable tractor, is making the farmer more and more independent.

All of this emphasizes the value to you of an International 8-16 tractor that is designed to do tip-top belt work as well as taking care of field and road jobs.

Place your order now and avoid shipping
delays.

About Ford Cars—Solid Logic

THE Ford car has been fundamentally right from the beginning. That fact made it "The Universal Car." It has always lead in lowest first cost as well as in lowest cost to maintain and operate.

Runabout, Touring Car, Coupe, Sedan, Truck and Fordson Tractor—we have them all and will make reasonably prompt delivery.

Simplicity has ever marked the designing and building of Ford cars, trucks and tractors. Henry Ford and his engineers have always striven for simplicity with strength. The success of the Model "T" Ford car and a great part of the Ford Motor Company's success has come from an early understanding and appreciation of that principle in motor car construction. The fewer the parts in a car, fewer the parts to go wrong. When that simple truth is carried out in producing a car, as it is in Ford cars, trucks and tractors, the result is bound to be a simplicity of design and building that means simplicity, durability and economy of operation.

This simplicity of construction proves itself in the ease with which Ford cars, trucks and tractors are driven. Four million five hundred Ford cars in daily service proves every claim we make.

More than ever we are sure the Ford car is your necessity—let's have your order to-day.

IN OLD ARNHEIM

Interesting and Beautiful City of Holland.

Estates That Remind the Visitor of the Arabian Nights, and at the Last, Dinner at Real Dutch Inn.

Perhaps the most interesting city in Holland is Arnheim, the chief center of Guelderland, near the German border. It is on the north branch of the Rhine, in the midst of a pleasant and fertile district, and is the spot selected by the wealthy nabobs, who made vast fortunes in the East Indies, for their homes and estates when they retired to enjoy their wealth.

In laying out these estates, each owner vied with his neighbor to excel him in beautifying and adorning his home. All the skill of gardeners and architects and builders was taxed to the utmost to produce delightful and surprising effects in roads, forests, lakes, bridges, fountains, gardens, houses and vistas—so that it became a real fairyland in which one would think the Arabian Nights had been realized. For instance, as the old head gardener conducted us about one of these estates, he brought us suddenly to a small lake, and there in the middle of it, without any road to reach it, was the castle of the proprietor, a curious medieval-looking pile, a copy of some ancient place that had pleased his fancy. Passing along under the great copper beech trees, we shortly came to a stream across which from bank to bank hung a little swinging suspension bridge of staves. With a dash at full run, the old guide sped across the bridge and then turned with a smile to see us follow. As there was no crossing except on the run, we accepted the challenge and our party of four all made it in safety, except one, who fell at the farther bank amid the gibes and laughter of the rest. Ten rods farther we came to a terrace beautifully ornamented with white marble statues, steps and vases. At the bottom was a pavement of a fourth of an acre, in white and black marble blocks, each twenty inches square.

We were directed to walk across this pavement, and when near the center, the gardener, who stepped upon a secret spring, which sent up a jet of water at each corner of every little square—hundreds of little columns of clear water—at first a foot, then two, then three feet high, and we, huddled in surprise, each in his twenty-inch square, were trisling and turning, to escape a wetting. So there were surprises of bisque birds and clay animals at unseen corners—figures that you would suppose at first were alive and just about to eat you alive. Then the charming vistas that opened through the shrubbery across the ponds—the long magnificent tunnels of verdure and color made by the driveways, arched with the glorious copper beeches—the groups of figures illustrating national legends or history—you could see a hundred Busch's gardens, laid out long ago, about quaint old Arnheim.

And when we came back to the hotel in town, it was the famous De Pauw (for Peach) Inn, which has been over three hundred years in continuous use as a hotel. And as we came into the long, curious dining room and saw, for the first time, a real Dutch table, loaded with all kinds of meats, fish, eggs, cheese, vegetables, fruit and pastries we clapped our hands with delight for it was no piece-meal affair, but it was "abundance and help yourself"—the original and generous and welcome Dutch cafeteria.

After a night of quiet rest in that clean and charming hostelry, we went our way next morning with recollections of Arnheim that will give pleasure while we live.—Los Angeles Times.

His Wish.

Ted does not like to go to Sunday school, but his father makes him attend regularly. And usually his attention to the lesson is very poor as a result. His teacher is one of the variety noted for long talks, and this does not add to the interest for Ted.

The teacher ended her talk with: "Now, we must all send all the money we can to Africa to convert those heathens. The way they are now they actually eat their Sunday school teachers."

The goody-goody boy spoke up. "I wish I had a lot of money so I could send it to the heathens," he longed.

The teacher looked expectantly at the others. They also should feel as zealous, but if they did none of them expressed it. She decided to encourage them. She looked smilingly at Ted.

"And what do you wish, little boy?" she asked.

It was now past closing time and Ted knew he would miss meeting the other boys to go to the township. Savagely he made answer: "I just wish I was a heathen."—Indianapolis News.

Many Film Pictures Per Second.

Taking motion pictures at the rate of some 15,000 a second with a camera and lens, is the recent achievement of a French scientist. High-speed photography is not new, but heretofore has depended upon electric-spark shadows, without lenses, and lacking sufficient illumination for clear definition. The mechanism of the camera consists of an aluminum reel, electrically driven at 3,000 r. p. m. and winding film at 164 feet a second. At this rate pictures 2 inches high are made about 10,000 times a second, larger and smaller surfaces being exposed at respectively slower and faster speeds, says the August Popular Mechanics Magazine in an article carrying a full-page illustration.

The illuminant is a stream of high-tension electric sparks with a frequency of about 80,000 a second, produced at the focal point of a concave reflector, and kept from flaming by a current of air.

First Annual Federal Accredited Consignment Sale

TO BE HELD AT
MIDDLETOWN, DELAWARE
Friday, April 1st, '21
At 10 O'clock, Sharp
Rain or Shine

What Stock Will be Consigned

There will be consigned 30 to 35 heifers and bulls, from two months to yearlings. Several bulls old enough for service, from the best herds of pure-bred cattle in the State, headed by sons of the best bulls of the breed.

And do not overlook the fact that all consignments are from FEDERAL ACCREDITED HERDS, so you take no chance as to health of all animals. A 60 day re-test privilege will be given, also papers to be delivered to all purchasers on day of sale.

Nine head of heifers and bulls consigned from the herd of Schrader & Janvier, herd headed by K. S. P. Ruby Alcartra Clothind. He is a fine 31 lb. son of King Segis Pontiac Alcartra, the noted $50,000 bull. K. S. P.'s 12 nearest dams average 30 pounds butter in seven days. We make special mention of one heifer calf, well grown and a beauty, with a 22 lb. dam. Rest are from cows with large association records.

James S. Moore consigns five heifers and five bulls, herd headed by King Korndyke Segis Pieter, a 30 lb. bull, with fine breeding and a very fine individual. Two yearling heifers and two yearling bulls, by above sire from dams with large association records. He also consigns one yearling heifer, sired by a son of King of the Pontiacs, out of one of the best cows in the county. One 2 year old heifer, now on test, she is a granddaughter of King of the Pontiacs. Two 7 year old cows also on test, will have official records by day of sale.

P. B. Messick consigns nine bulls, from three months to one year old, herd headed by King Pontiac Veeman Beets, with a 20 lb. two year old dam. His sire is King of the Pontiacs, recognized as the greatest bull in the world. He has more official record daughters than any bull living.

One yearling bull large enough for service and one three months old bull by above sire. This dam is a very large cow with a record of 20.47 lbs. butter in seven days, largest day's milk 90 lbs. Also one heifer calf with a dam having a 20.34 lbs. butter record. One bull calf with dam having a 14 lb. two year old record. One bull calf with dam having a 15.79 lbs. three year old record. Four others with dams having large association records.

Mr. B. V. Armstrong has consigned two heifers and two cows, herd headed by Delaware Pictle Colantha Korndyke. He has a 20 lb. two year old dam, and he is a great grandson of Pontiac Korndyke. The dam of Mr. Armstrong's bull sold for $2,800 at public sale.

The heifers are by the above bull, well grown and beauties, with dams giving a large flow of milk. The two cows are good size and extra good milkers, in calf to above bull.

John H. Clendaniel, of Kennedysville, Md., consigns a beautiful two year old heifer, born February 27th, 1919. She was bred last October and is out of a splendid individual, G. N. B. Alcartra Pontiac Rose, who has a two year old record of 17 pounds of butter and a three year old record of 20 pounds of butter. She is sired by Iowa Rollingdale Fayne, whose dam has a three year old record of 661 pounds of butter and 18,000 pounds of milk. His sire is the famous Holstein sire, Sir Johanna Fayne. This heifer is a beautiful individual, a show animal.

TERMS—A credit of Nine Months will be given to purchasers giving a bankable note with approved security, or a discount of five per cent, will be allowed for cash.

SHERIFF'S SALE—BY VIRTUE OF a writ of Lev. Fac. to me directed, will be exposed to Public Sale at the Court House, Southeast Corner of Eleventh and King Streets, City of Wilmington, New Castle County, Delaware, Turks and Ducks.

Janet, a four-year-old, was getting up one morning recently when she fired this question at her mother: "Where is my old sweater, mother?" "Why, you sent it to the little Armenians," said her mother.
"Well, why don't they send it back? Didn't the ducks kill all the Armenians?" came back Janet.
She had heard about the Turkish outrages in the near east, but evidently thought the Turks were a species of barnyard fowl, which in her youthful mind easily became confused with the duck.

Whitman Sought by Collectors.
Walt Whitman's manuscripts and first editions are now bringing high returns to the rare book dealers. Gabriel Wells, the dealer in fine books, has sold the manuscript of the poem, "After All Not to Create Only," for $1,500. The latter half of the poem is written on the reverse side of the stationery of the United States treasury department, in which Whitman was a clerk at the time. Commenting upon the value of first editions of "Leaves of Grass," Mr. Wells says that they have doubled in value during the last five years.

The Reason Why.
The school teacher was giving an object lesson on sheep to the infants' class, explaining how they are washed, sheared, etc. She then showed the whole class a picture of a sheep and a lamb.
"Now who can tell me why it is that the sheep has a short tail and the lamb a long one?" she asked.
Little Joy jumped up immediately, and this was her reply:
"Please, teacher, the sheep's tail was shrunk in the wash."—Every Woman's.

COLT NEGLECTED IN SPRING

No One Considers That He Should Be Gradually Changed Over From Dry Winter Ration.

Consider the colt in the springtime! Maybe he is a yearling with a half-formed equine mind full of curiosity and wonderment. Every old horse on the place is off in the fields somewhere at work in daylight. His owner neglects the colt as much as he can and have the youngster live.

The half-remembered green fields and pastures of last year become green once more. The colt has vague memories of the taste of green things that mingled on his taste-nerves with the flavor of mother's milk. From between the cracks in the post-and-rail fence that incloses his world he looks upon the springing grass, marvels and hungers. Part of his hunger is plain hunger, part is memory, and most of it is instinct, but it is all very real.

He is a lonely little hideful of instincts and cravings about to start his second year. He is a bewildered orphan of the farm stalls and stables, accustomed to his corn and alfalfa, and with all the troubles of horsehood's life before him. About half the time no one considers that he should be gradually changed over from the dry-winter ration to the soft green summer ration, and when the change comes it comes so quickly that there is not a day's time for that young horse's stomach to get used to it.

For long weeks the plow teams have been getting ready for the change. If they could not sense the spring in the air, in any other way they might know it from the gradually increasing amount of corn that is going in the feed boxes. They are being worked a little more and a little steeper than they were while January's snows still covered the pastures. The colt, though, goes his neglected way until some day after the oats are in and every plow moldboard on the place is like burnished silver, then all at once some one decides it is high time that the colt was on the pasture.

On the pasture he goes. It may be just enough of a pasture to keep life within his hide, but he must get along with an occasional salting on sunny Sunday mornings. The grass may be thin and watery, tasteless compared with that good alfalfa he has been getting all winter long, but if he gets thin and hard-bellied, then that must be the colt's fault and not because he is not getting enough to eat. Is he not on a pasture and is not a pasture supposed to be the very place for colts?

Of course, it stands to reason that the change from the warm stable and the regular corn and alfalfa to the open pasture and the yellow-green, thin, spring grass should be a gradual one. Still, no one is supposed to use a great deal of reason in dealing with a boy, a pup or a colt.

TO ESTABLISH SHEEP FLOCK

Farmers Should Not Hesitate to Pay Good Price for Ewes That Produce Thrifty Lambs.

In establishing a flock of sheep do not hesitate to pay a good price for ewes if they are exactly adapted, and especially for those that, when judiciously mated, are likely to produce lambs that will give the best return for the food which they consume. It is of the utmost importance to make use of rams that possess great individual merit, and strongly inherit the good points by which they are distinguished. Unless a ram has a good masculine head and stands firmly on strong legs he should not be selected, however great his merits may be in other respects. Breeding ewes should be kept in good store condition. Show condition and low condition both must be avoided.

BEST TIME TO TRAIN COLTS

Mistake Not to Halt Foals and Teach Them to Lead During Infancy—Means Less Trouble.

It is a mistake not to halt foals and teach them to lead during infancy, when it can be done with less trouble than at any other time. A few minutes two or three times a week is sufficient, as they should be by no means pulled about so as to make them perspire, as there is then a risk of their taking cold. As well as the halter lessons the youngster should be taught to eat dry food, which he will soon do if it is held to him or if allowed to eat from the manger with his dam.

Increase in Farms.
During the past ten years the number of farms in the United States has increased only 1.372 per cent. Nebraska and Iowa both show decreases.

No Place for Scrubs.
There just doesn't seem to be any place in this efficiency-demanding age for the scrub hen, cow, trees or folks!

Best Fields By-Product.
Best tops raised this year in the United States, will be an equivalent of 800,000 tons of alfalfa.

DAIRY FACTS

LARGE GROWTH IN DAIRYING

Dairy Division Directs Efforts Toward Increased Use of Milk and Dairy Products.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

In the Southern states the work conducted by the dairy division, United States Department of Agriculture, to promote dairying and the consumption of dairy products has shown marked results. The efforts last year were directed largely toward increasing the use of milk and dairy products on the farm through campaigns for cows on every farm, and improving farm dairy products by practical demonstrations in schools and in farm kitchens. In Louisiana 274 cottage-cheese demonstrations, 207 butter-making demonstrations, and 236 demonstrations on milk products were made, and 266 meetings were held. As a result, 2,008 families were reported as using more milk, 173 cows were brought in where there were none before, 34 boys and girls' clubs were organized, and much improved dairy apparatus was purchased.

In South Carolina the activities resulted in the increased use of milk in 1,384 families and in the purchase of 73 family cows. Sixty demonstrations were given in butter making and 38 in making other dairy products. The work in Mississippi resulted in placing 322 family cows in 11 counties and in the purchase of 2,040 pieces of improved dairy equipment. Dairy clubs were organized in 11 counties, 49 meetings were held, and 76 demonstrations were given.

CAUSE OF TEAT AFFECTIONS

Hands of Milker Should Be Kept Clean and Finger Nails Trimmed Quite Closely.

Milking with uncleaned wet hands is a fertile cause of teat affections. The teats and udder should be cleansed each time before milking and the milker's hands also should be kept clean. The finger nails of the milker should be kept close-trimmed and when milking care be taken not to squeeze the tips of the teats too hard. Such bruising is the cause of a condition which we have termed "corns" of the teats. The skin becomes hardened, horny or calloused and milking then becomes difficult, or the milk sprays during extraction. Dirty and contaminated stall floors and allowing cows to lie upon dirty, wet ground, or waste in stagnant water or drag their udders through wet and filth on the way to the stable are other causes; and a common cause of sores on the tip of the hind teats is bruises from stepping upon them when crossing a sill into the stable or by trampling in narrow stalls.

TRAIN CALF FOR SHOW RING

Youngster Should Become Accustomed to Being Handled by Strangers and to Stand Erect.

When a well-fed and properly developed calf is brought into the show ring it should present a pleasing appearance. It should be clean, well groomed, halter broken and trained. To train a calf, say specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture, put a halter on it and teach it to lead and to stand squarely on all four feet with head alert so as to exhibit its best features. It should become accustomed to being handled by strangers, seeing strange sights, and hearing unusual sounds. A good calf is frequently placed below an inferior one because the judge cannot put his hand on it to judge it correctly.

COW-TESTING ASSOCIATIONS

On June 30, 1920, Number Had Increased 84 Over Corresponding Date in Year 1919.

Cow-testing associations in the United States numbered 467 on June 30, 1920. This number represents a gain of 84 over the corresponding date in 1919. Bull associations increased during the same period from 78 to 120.

SUPERIOR RATION FOR COWS

Corn Silage, Clover or Alfalfa Hay, Corn and Bran Are Excellent for Producing Milk.

Here is a good ration for dairy cows: Corn silage, 25 pounds; clover or alfalfa hay, 10 pounds; corn, 4 pounds; bran, 4 pounds. In every case, silage is considered an excellent feed for the milk cow.

Influence of Purebred Sire.
A purebred bull will exert a strong influence upon the progeny when mated with cows of mixed breeding than when he is mated with pure-breds or high-grades.

Increase Milk Production.
Milk production of cows is increased by a molasses ration, and the appetite of fat steers is improved.

Costly Cow Stable.
The costly stable for the cow is the one that makes her uncomfortable.

"Cold in the Head"

Is an acute attack of Nasal Catarrh. Those subject to frequent "colds in the head" will find that the use of HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE will build up the system, cleanse the blood and render them less liable to colds. Repeated attacks of Acute Catarrh may lead to Chronic Catarrh.
HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE is taken internally and acts through the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system, thus reducing the inflammation and restoring normal conditions.

Immovable Fez.
The director of indigenous arts in Fez, Morocco, told me that he had recently come upon a book written in the fourteenth century and describing Fez as it was at that time. The director compared the statements in the book, item for item, with Fez as it is today—and found the book to be perfectly up-to-date. Reprint it and it would pass very well as a modern account of present-day Fez. The people of Fez are still doing things just as they did them in medieval times.—Willard Price in Christian Herald.

Work Animals in Demand.
Pennsylvania and the states east and north do not produce one-fourth of the work animals they use and are constantly drawing on the Central West for their work stock. Many of these are farm chunks sold directly to eastern farms, while others are horses produced and worked on the farms of the Mississippi valley until five or six years old, then passed to eastern cities, where after six or eight years of service they are resold as sore-footed, city-worn horses to dealers, who sell them at a very nominal figure to farming sections of New England, to work the balance of their days. Such horses represent a complete cycle from farms to cities and back to farms again. It is more true now than in the past, that the good horse or mule pays a profit to the producer, the dealer and ultimate user, while the poor one loses money to all concerned.—Exchange.

Belgian Fishing Industry.
Plans are being drawn for the construction of a large fishing harbor in Zebrugge, which will not interfere with the working of the port as a commercial center. This is but a part of a project for the establishment of a national fishing industry. At present Belgium is almost entirely dependent on foreign imports, especially of preserved fish. The building of the new harbor will be undertaken by the government, which will also provide for the rapid handling and transportation of goods; private enterprise will establish the necessary cold storage and erect works for making cases and barrels and factories for pickling, drying and preserving fish.
